c) Legislative Committee (Pg. 5 Directory)

- Juhan Mixon, FADIMA lobbyist, met with different groups
- Copies of Cost Analysis were taken on Sept. 29th
- Met with individuals who wanted to know more about it.
- Don Griesheimer- provided tips on what needed to be emphasized on Cost analysis
- Mary Jane Tappan-spoke about technology and FADIMA's place within the process;
  - Realized that technology doesn't work for everyone.
  - FADIMA represents our districts (not publishers)
  - FADIMA is the vehicle for ensuring students have the appropriate instructional materials
  - Appreciated the explanation behind the cost analysis
  - Very positive experience
- John Newman – Senior Advisor/legislative policy & Budget, DOE
  - Very knowledgeable about cost analysis
  - Relies on this document to inform decisions
- Link Jarrett, Executive Staff Director, DOE
  - Very familiar with Cost analysis
  - Different groups were encouraging to FADIMA. There did not appear to be a push to make IM funds non categorical. Does not appear to be any movement to embrace 'flexibility' -Not going to go away, however. As of March 1st,

'flexibility' remains part of the language. All groups seemed to be on the same page.

- Kurt Hamon, Mark Armstrong, Elizabeth Carrouth
- Senator Wise thinks the Kindle will solve all the problems of the world.
- Kurt was most interested in 'how could FADIMA' come up with a secondary cost analysis for everything to be digital;
- Perception: If publishers provide everything in a digital format, that it would be less expensive

- Further discussion by the board on eBooks included:
  - Discussion included what might be the projected cost if Netbooks were provided for every student.
  - Bill Purtell share the fact that Palm Beach County – adopted READ 180; 90% is online and cost 2.5 million dollars initially. This initiative cost District 8 million dollars to employ READ 180.
  - Peggy Finch also shared a project in her district that supported the use of instructional materials - all of books had been loaded on netbooks.
  - Several factors can impact use of digital content. Lou Greco shared that, for the first time online books through Amazon has been reduced to $9.99.
  - Previously addressed - Pat Evans had worked with a company where intellectual rights were an issue.
  - Staff Development is a major consideration.
  - Work with the state seeking competitive grant money to support pilot programs. Possibility to draw from "Race to the Top." However, criteria for qualifications are very restricted and must support lower 5%, socioeconomically.
  - Michele Rivera shared the response to the Board on cost, security, and kinds of devices available to support delivery of digital content. A matrix was created to identify information along with the pros/cons of using each device, along with how schools across the district were using them.
    - This could be a starting point for FADIMA as the committee continues its research on the use of various devices across the state.
    - Digital Committee will assume responsibility for further research.

- The committee also met with Diane Vaccari
- Orange Grove Text Plus, joint initiative of the University Press of Florida, was mentioned. Initiative directed at colleges/universities
  - Serves as a repository of free, open access instructional resources, including multimedia files.
- Cookie shared two articles: Digital Classrooms Take Flight and Will the Kindle Change Education?
